FOR RELEASE JUNE 27, 2022

Learn to declutter your home with professional organizer Jocelyn Taylor

If you are feeling like your home is not as organized as it could be, you aren't alone — especially given how much time many people have spent at home since 2020! Jocelyn Taylor is here to help with a Decluttering 101 workshop at the Kingston Frontenac Public Library's Isabel Turner Branch.

Decluttering Your Space with Jocelyn Taylor is happening on July 8 at 2 p.m., with registration required. Sign up online at <https://calendar.kfpl.ca/event/6524262>.

Taylor is head of Popped Closet Organizing, a business providing in-depth sessions on organizing home spaces. At the in-person KFPL event, she will use physical examples to demonstrate exactly how you can perfect your space.

"Living space is also becoming our work space," said Jake Miller, Librarian, Adult Programming. "Having Jocelyn present an organizing session at the library is not only timely, but will provide essential information for anyone spending a chunk of their day at home. Organizing can be an art, and Kingston Frontenac is lucky to have a professional like Jocelyn share her expertise to make our spaces more livable."
