FOR RELEASE SEPTEMBER 19, 2022

Learn about travel writing and life in Kenya with local author Diane Creber

Local author and artist Diane Creber's book has a tale to tell from the title alone: Don't Pee Under a Tree in Africa. Learn more about this titular advice, and travel writing, during an author talk with Creber at the Kingston Frontenac Public Library's Sydenham Branch, from 2-3 p.m. on October 13.

Creber will read from the book, centred around her visit to a friend's home in Nairobi, Kenya. She writes about her travels within Kenya, breaking down barriers in culture and communication, and the experience of living in a Kenyan urban centre.

"Having a local writer speak about her work will encourage aspirational travel writers," said Jake Miller, Librarian, Adult Programming. "Diane will share her experience of a lesser-known locale and how this life-changing journey translates into words. Travel writing is an art; we're fortunate to have the artist with us to discuss the trade!"

Space is limited to 20 attendees. Register at <https://calendar.kfpl.ca/event/7136189>.

This program has been made possible by financial assistance from the Canada Council for the Arts through the Writers' Union of Canada.
