Bookmarks: Hear from Canadian bestselling author Sonya Singh

Sonya Singh is a rising star in the literary world, a former entertainment reporter turned PR expert turned popular author. Her rom-com novel Sari, Not Sari was an instant bestseller. It explores the challenges of relationships, connecting with South Asian heritage and how to balance the two in broader North American culture.

Learn about what inspires Singh's creativity at the Kingston Frontenac Public Library and Queen's University Library's first author talk of the year. Singh, who also wrote The Breakup Expert, will share her story online via Zoom on January 16 from 6:30-7:30 p.m.

"It will be delightful to have Sonya with us," said Jake Miller, Librarian, Adult Programming. "Her work highlights our commitments and obligations to loved ones while also trying to manage our intimate relationships and stumbling along the way."
